Sabi Ardalan is clinical professor of law at Harvard Law School and assistant director of the Harvard Immigration and Refugee Clinical Program (HIRC). At HIRC, Ardalan supervises and trains law students working on applications for asylum and other humanitarian protections, as well as appellate litigation and policy advocacy. She teaches courses on immigration and refugee law, international labor migration, and on trauma, refugees, and the law. Prior to her work with the clinic, Ardalan clerked for Hon. Michael A. Chagares of the Third Circuit Court of Appeals and Hon. Raymond J. Dearie, district judge for the Eastern District of New York.

Iris Goldner Lang is Jean Monnet professor and holder of the UNESCO Chair on Free Movement of People, Migration and Inter-Cultural Dialogue at the University of Zagreb, Faculty of Law. She works at the Department of European Public Law, which she chaired from 2013 until 2015. Professor Goldner Lang is one of the academic coordinators of the Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence EU's Global Leadership in the Rule of Law. She is the president of the Croatian Society for European Law (FIDE branch), Croatian representative in the Odysseus Network for Immigration and Asylum, and the Editor-In-Chief of the Croatian Yearbook of European Law and Policy.

Hiroshi Motomura is the Susan Westerberg Prager Distinguished Professor of Law at the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA) and an influential scholar and teacher of US immigration and citizenship. His scholarship has shaped the development of immigration law and policy in several key areas, including the adoption of Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals and the setting of limits on immigration detention. The recipient of many teaching honors and one of 26 law professors nationwide profiled in What the Best Law Teachers Do (2013), he is now at work on a new book, The New Migration Law, with the support of a Guggenheim Fellowship.

Moria Paz is legal researcher focusing on international law, human rights, refugee and migrant rights, and security. She is a Fellow at Stanford Law School and the Center on National Security and the Law at Georgetown. She is currently completing a manuscript, Network or State? International Law and the History of Jewish Self-Determination (OUP 2020). Her work has been recognized through the Sakip Sabanci International Research Awards (2019); the Law & Humanities Interdisciplinary Writing Competition (2014); New Voices for the American Society of International Law (2013); and the Laylin Prize for Best Paper in International Law (2007).
