A student who, following the end of the semester for which the tuition had already been paid, does not meet the conditions for enrolment in the next semester is obliged to pay half of the fee from Point 1 of this Decision before re-enrolling in the same semester in order to meet the previously unfulfilled conditions for enrolment in the following semester.
- III. The tuition referred to in Point 1 of this Decision shall cover all the rights provided for in Article 22 (1) of the Regulations on Postgraduate Doctoral Study in Legal Sciences, which include organising and conducting doctoral and methodological conferences. Tuition does not include accommodation, food, travel expenses and other similar material costs that may arise as a result of doctoral or methodological conferences.

 - a student who does not prepare and defend the doctoral dissertation within the period in which he/she is required to complete the Study is obliged to pay a fee for the preparation and defence of the doctoral thesis in the amount equal to the tuition to be paid for one semester of Study.

A student who has not prepared and defended a doctoral dissertation even after the deadline set by the Regulations is obliged to pay a fee for extending the right to prepare and defend a doctoral dissertation in accordance with the decision extending the doctoral study and determining the completion date.
- VI. - VII. This decision applies to all students who enrol in the Study after it enters into force.
